

San Juan Island Growers Cooperative

To provide food to the San Juan Island community and to take advantage of local retail opportunities for agricultural producers, a group of market gardeners has joined forces to grow food to market and sell collectively at the San Juan Island Farmers Market and the San Juan Island Food Co-op, with an option to expand to other markets in the future.

If you might be interested in joining this group, please provide the following information and come to a meeting to discuss the possibilities!
